

International Summer School

From June 5 to July 28 of 2018

Open enrollment

International Summer School

The International Summer School promoted by the Law School at Universidad de los Andes offers a unique opportunity in Colombia and throughout the region, which allows all admitted students to follow intensive courses with prestigious professors from around the world ensuring the highest standards in terms of experience and sophistication. For 2018 we offer 18 courses: 8 to be taught in English language and 10 in Spanish language. The courses cover a huge variety of topics, some very specific, with theoretical and practical focuses, and other interdisciplinary. Still, all of them of very high academic worth.

For undergraduate Law students at Universidad de los Andes, all the courses count as faculty electives. Additionally, 8 of the courses are considered as credits for the completion of the undergraduate curriculum.

Join us from June 5 to July 28, when the Law School from Universidad de los Andes will be hosting an outstanding gathering of international academics.
